

TRAILBLAZING THE MERRIMACK VALLEY OPEN INNOVATION CLUSTER

GLOBALIZATION IS A POWERFUL

force that makes large scale regional open innovation essential for business and economic development. To thrive, a region needs a cluster of entrepreneurs and talented workers, a strong education network, collaborative business practices and tools, as well as access to capital resources and local and global markets. Greater Haverhill and the Merrimack Valley region has all of the components of the cluster and is an ideal place for developing innovative businesses.

The concept of open innovation brings together internal R&D talent with entrepreneurial partners to share expertise and intellectual property for rapid co-development of products and services.

This conference uniquely introduces open innovation to stakeholders and addresses how to leverage ideas from our regional ecosystem to innovate better and faster for sustainable economic development.
